

Living an Excellent Life Who Told You?

Genesis 3:10-12

Have you ever wondered how you arrived at the place in life where you are right now? I have. What are your circumstances? Are you living your dream or are you living somebody else's dream? Maybe you had kids before you were ready? Perhaps you never finished college? Maybe, just maybe, you listened to somebody that told you a lie that you actually believed and that lie placed you on a road you really never intended to travel?

Today, we want to talk about a question; Who Told You?

Who told you that you were not pretty enough, strong enough, smart enough, or talented enough? Did somebody tell you that you would never amount to anything? Did somebody tell you that your skin was the wrong color? That you were born on the wrong side of the tracks? How about that life has passed you by?

Who told you that you didn't belong, that it was too late for you? Did somebody tell you that your addiction was bigger than you? Did somebody tell you that you would always be in debt, or maybe you have gone as far in the company as you will ever go? How about you not being the marrying type or, you're a three time loser? I wish to make a public declaration that, "They are ALL LIARS!" and because of sin, we have allowed the father of all lies to control us long enough! It's time to move on! It is time to listen to God above the lies!

Listen to what God says . . .

I. You have a God given, spiritual, legal right to _____
_____. John 10:10

A. Don't allow people to _____ your dreams.

1. The dreams are from _____.
2. The Spirit inside of the believer is _____ of God.
3. Let yourself _____ like a child again.

II. You can do what God has _____ within you to do.
Philippians 4:13

A. It is the Lord Who _____ you who you are, not other's opinions of you.

1. When you begin to accomplish _____, people will fight against you.
2. Go ahead and _____ it.
3. Quit listening to _____.

God's Word counts!

III. God does not see you as you are, but He sees you as He has _____ you to be! Acts 10:34

A. God's door is always _____ to you.

1. When we _____ into the Lord, the world opens up to us.
2. God's _____ is a map to vitality.
3. God's ways, _____, and strength are always bigger than your thoughts.

Conclusion

1. Be an 'encourager of _____' for somebody else.
2. Never allow somebody to get into your mind and tell you something _____ to what God believes.
3. _____ yourself with people who believe.